

SALINA JOURNAL

LETTERS | Opinion This piece expresses the views of its author(s), separate from those of this publication.

Muslim migrants just don't behave like our Mennonites

Staff Writer Salina Journal

June 11, 2018, 6:36 p.m. CT

If Muslim migrants behaved like Mennonites no one would have a problem with them. In fact, they would probably be sought-after.

The problem is they don't.

They reflect the rigid intolerance of the societies they come from.

They have little regard for human life, including their own.

Never has such a religious culture believed itself to be so superior yet demonstrated the misogynistic brutishness of a third-world street gang.

Need a news break? Check out the all new PLAY hub with puzzles, games and more!

The question Western societies must ask themselves: Is Muslim immigration worth the debasement of their own women and children in order to placate a subset of human beings whose ultimate objective is the destruction of every social vestige of the host country?

We also must remember that these people fled lands of competing tyrants and they were the losers.

Like most barbarians, they don't seek to change their ways, but to ply their brutality on those they consider weaker than themselves.

Is victimhood at the hands of cultural thugs the legacy you wish to leave your children?

GREGORY BONTRAGER, Hutchinson